Again: Fw: Public records request unfulfilled

Gary,

Sal has asked me to send you this request daily until we get an answer to the question below, asked repeatedly (see below):

The specific record being sought is the FIRST document in which the specific cost of employee raises and longevity increases for this contract period appears. The city has provided a document dated April 21, 2010 in which those figures appear. So what you are saying when you write that "the documents provided to you contain whatever information the City has, to my knowledge, relevant to your request" is that the city has no earlier document containing those specific numbers.

Is it correct that no document with those specific numbers exists prior to April 21, 2010?

If it does, please provide it. If it does not, please tell us that no document exists.

Thank you

Re: Again: Fw: Public records request unfulfilled

Thanks Hal. As I told you before, I truly believe all of the records that relate to your request have been provided. You can keep sending me the request, but the answer will be the same. Again, your request seems to be for information which can be obtained from the documents that were provided to you if someone takes the time to read them. If you are concerned about the dates, the dates are on the documents and they speak for themselves as to when they were generated.

Re: Again: Fw: Public records request unfulfilled

Gary,

I am interpreting that when you say "the dates are on the documents and they speak for themselves as to when they were generated" and that "documents provided to you contain whatever information the City has, to my knowledge, relevant to your request" means that all the documents with the number in question have been disclosed to us. Please let me know if that is incorrect.

Thank you

Hal
